

MRS. DRISCHMAN BREAKS DOWN IN GRISWOLD CASE

Woman Becomes So Confused in Testimony, Counsel Asks for Recess.

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 12.—Under a merciless barrage of questions on cross-examination by former Judge C. L. Cole, chief counsel for the Countess Anna St. Clair de Contubria, in her attack on the will of her mother, the late Alice Gerry Griswold, Mrs. Mary M. Drischman yesterday broke down, and her attorneys were forced to appeal to the court for a recess until she could compose herself.

The collapse of the woman, under whose administration an estate valued at $500,000, dwindled to $80,000, came while she was being interrogated concerning "mistakes" in testimony given at previous hearings.

The witness became so badly confused that she was unable to tell her own age. She admitted five errors in statements made on the witness stand several days ago.

Attorney George A. Bourgeois, chief counsel for Mrs. Drischman, asking for a recess, said: "My client is in no shape to continue. Her brain is befuddled and she is not answering questions correctly." Judge Robert H. Ingersoll granted the request.

Prior to the calling of Mrs. Drisch-

Food, Rent And Clothes Still "Sky High," Survey Shows

By International News Service.

The cost of living has a long tumble to make before the pre-war level is reached.

Large cities in all parts of the United States, studied by the Government's statistical cracks, showed today that the average cost of running the household has decreased less than 20 per cent since the unprecedented price inflation of eighteen months ago.

That calculation considered only essentials for the average family, such as food, clothing, housing, fuel and light, furnishings and miscellaneous incidentals.

The cost of housing still is around the top figures attained in the upward price sweep of two years ago. There has been no substantial saving on that score. There has been but little less in clothing, or other necessities named.

Placed on the stand for the countess, the physician declared he attended Mrs. Griswold from 1915 to 1917, and that "most of the time she was more or less crazy from drugs."

On further examination as to "soothing" propensities of the drug used, the doctor replied:

"Yes, but it has an exceptionally long hangover. The patient is more or less crazy for days."

JOHN DOE, LOST FOR YEARS, HAS AT LAST BEEN FOUND

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—John Doe, the world's "greatest criminal" and prisoner in a thousand American towns and cities has been found. He appeared in Judge David's criminal court.

Arrested, with two other men, on charge of a confidence game, his name was questioned.

"Are you really John Doe?" asked Judge David.

"Ah sure am, Yer Honor," replied Doe.

"Well we've been hunting for you for seven hundred years. You certainly have some ancestry."

Doe was charged with "squeezing" $500 out of an alleged victim in a pool game.

JAP PROFESSOR SEES ENGLISH AS UNIVERSAL

HONOLULU, Oct. 12.—English is destined to be the universal language of the future, according to an opinion expressed by Baron N. Kanda, of Tokyo, Japan, in a recent address before the Honolulu Rotary Club.

Baron Kanda, who is a member of the Japanese House of Peers, professor emeritus of commerce in Tokyo University and official Japanese delegate to the Pan-Pacific educational conference in this city, compared the work which the conference is starting of spreading the use of the English language throughout the world to that which has been done in the United States by the Rotary Club. Although eight nationalities were represented at the educational conference, all sessions were conducted in English.

Owing to the fact that short-lot quantities are limited—no mail, phone or C. O. D. orders.
